Going the Extra Mile for Mature Employees Wins Suntec Singapore Praises

Singapore, 7 March 2011 – Suntec Singapore International Convention and Exhibition Centre (Suntec Singapore) shone once again as a finalist for “Best Mature Workforce Practices” at the recent HRM Awards 2011.

The established HRM Awards is considered to be Asia’s pre-eminent Human Resource awards programme that showcases the best and brightest HR talents in Singapore. Held annually, the event is into its eighth year in Singapore.

Suntec Singapore was named an award finalist for its commitment towards developing the potential of older employees through continual training, flexible working policies and non age-discriminatory hiring practices.

“We are honoured to be selected as a finalist for this respected award and recognised for our doing what is only the right thing to do. Our industry is all about people, passion and the skills set they bring. As an organisation, Suntec Singapore is continuously working with the union on ways to enhance the employment of older workers. This is our commitment and we strongly believe that age, experience and wisdom are valuable assets that will bring greater knowledge, expertise and inspiration to our team,” commented Ms Jacqueline Goh, Director of Human Resources and Administration of Suntec Singapore.

In addition, Suntec Singapore is an Approved Training Organisation (ATO) which is formally recognised by Singapore Workforce Development Agency (WDA) to deliver training and/or assessment under the Singapore Workforce Skills Qualifications (WSQ).

Suntec Singapore is proud to be a finalist along with the other organisations such as Alexandra Health, Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore, Land Transport Authority, McDonald's Restaurants, Ministry of Manpower, National University Hospital, Robinsons and Singapore Health Services.
